2024 National Native Seed Conference

Contributed by aneely on Sep 14, 2023 - 12:50 PM

The National Native Seed Conference (NNSC) is excited to announce a virtual conference in 2024! The NNSC connects research, industry, land management, and restoration professionals, providing the premier opportunity to develop relationships and share information about the collection, research and development, production, and use of native plant materials.

Our next event will be a virtual conference on February 7-8, 2024. The conference will be held from 8am – 2pm PST/11am – 5pm EST.

The NNSC is now accepting abstracts through October 14th, 2023. February 7 will focus on Native Seed Production and February 8 will focus on Seed-Based Restoration.   Abstracts that include one or both conference sub-themes of Climate Change and Indigenous Knowledge are preferred. Presentation time slots are 30 minutes, 20-25 minutes for speaking and 5-10 minutes for questions. Notifications will be sent in November. Please contact conference@appliedeco.org with any questions.
